It will cost nine million dollars to lay the new ocean cable between the United States and England.

Frank James has experienced so deep a change of heart that he would be satisfied if the State of Missouri would surrender to him.

The editor of the Eau Claire Free Press must have failed to get an office, as he now wants a new deal all around on Congressmen from his State.

A Democratic paper in Baltimore asks the question—"Shall the Democratic party of Maryland die in a ditch?" If the Democratic party of Maryland dies like the Democratic party in the Northern States it will die in a ditch.

The journeymen shoemakers of Chicago have not only struck for an increase of wages, but they want to compel the manufacturers to dispense with the use of machines with which shoemakers are made. Why not strike to compel the employers to live in no better houses than the employees?

The Senate of the United States has passed by a vote of 42 to 11, the army bill which provides for compulsory retirement of officers who have passed the age of 64. An attempt to except Gen. Sherman, who is within two years of that age, from the operation of the bill, and also General Sheridan when he shall have reached 64, was unsuccessful.

Mr. Blaine seems determined to keep out of the Congressional contest in Maine. His private business, which he has neglected of late years while serving his constituents in Congress, must be attended to and no influence can change his present purpose to keep out of politics. When a man will not allow himself to become a slave to politics, he may be said to have reached that exalted position of personal independence.

Cronism in Oregon has come to naught, and the State wheels into the Republican column in double-quick time. The Republicans there have elected the entire Republican State ticket by over 2,000 majority, besides re-electing Mr. George, Republican, to Congress, and electing a Republican majority in the Legislature, which insures the election of a Republican to the United States Senate to succeed Grover, the man who issued in 1876, a certificate of election to the notorious Cronin.

It would be interesting to know who did the sneering at the Yorktown centennial celebration. The House of Representatives has been considering the deficiency of $32,000 in that matter, and in unearthing some facts it was ascertained that there were bills for 130 cases of champagne, costing $3,900; 68 gallons of whisky; 32 dozen sherry; 15 gallons of 1830 brandy; and $250 worth of cigars. These expenses were defended by one member of Congress on the ground that "a man who would let a Frenchman drink alone was no gentleman." The argument was so strong that the deficiency will be made good.

The Inter Ocean should not strike such a wicked blow at Mr. George William Curtis. It says: "In a recent number of Harper's Weekly, he laments the extravagance and corruption in office, and points as an illustration to legislators who employ their relatives as clerks of committees at a compensation of $25 a day for light work or none." The committee clerks of the Senate get $6 a day during the session, and the clerks of the House get $4 a day." It then strikes the blow which Mr. Curtis will not resist: "Some of the clerks have to serve two or more committees, and all of them do more honest labor for their compensation than George William Curtis did when, upon his own motion, he drew $50 a day while acting as a member of the Civil Service Reform Commission." Mr. Curtis will find that it is not always pleasant to have the truth come to light.

For some time there have been rumors of a new line of railway from Chicago to Madison, but nothing definite has been obtained in regard to the enterprise. The State Journal, however, says "it is informed from an authentic source that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company have in contemplation the building of a new line, which, when completed, will furnish Madison and all the towns lying upon the main lines of this company in Wisconsin a new route to Chicago. This new connection is to start at Libertyville, a station some twenty miles northwest from Chicago, taking a direct course thence, to the foot of Geneva Lake, in Walworth county, in this State, and pass direct through Johnson town, in Rock county, to join the main line at Milton. A reference to a railroad map of Wisconsin and northern Illinois will show what a perfectly feasible line this will be and how much it will shorten up the line from Prairie du Chien as well as from other western termini of the lines of this company in reaching Chicago, and how much it will facilitate freight and passenger traffic over a wide extent of country. Our informant assures us that it is the determination of the company to have this line in operation by the summer or fall of 1883, and he claims that their interest in the completion of the line is such that there will be no failure in a vigorous prosecution of the work."

WISCONSIN PIONEERS.

The Annual Gathering at the Capital Yesterday.

MADISON, June 8.—Yesterday afternoon the Wisconsin State Pioneers' association met in annual session in the assembly chamber, and was called to order by Major J. H. Rountree, of Platteville, Grant county, president, who made a brief speech, stating that it was a pleasure for him to call such a meeting to order. He had been delighted in being able to shake hands with so many old friends, during the day. He gave a few interesting sketches of early life in Wisconsin—how homes were made and settlements created.

Upon invitation of the chair, Rev. Wm. Haw offered up a fervent prayer.

Gen. David Atwood came forward and announced that it had been the intention of Gov. Rusk to deliver a welcome address to the pioneers, but important official duties made it impossible for him to be present. His excellency had requested the general to take his place, which he did by extending to all a most cordial welcome to the capital. They would consider that they had a free run of the building and grounds. The general indulged in a decidedly interesting, but brief sketch of early times in the territory and state of Wisconsin.

Hon. Andrew E. Emore, of Brown county, was called on. He criticised General Atwood's remarks regarding hard times in territorial history. Mr. E. claimed the times were better then; that people were more intelligent. Why, it was only a short time ago, while at his home he was cleaning up a gun which he used in olden times and a gentleman of modern school handled the flint and asked what that was for! He actually knew nothing of the good old flint lock. In olden times there were no tramps, no beggars. Settlers could go off to pick wild strawberries and leave their axes, pots and kettles in the yard, and find them on their return.

The following telegram from A. Hyatt Smith was read:

JANESVILLE, WIS., June 7.

To Hon. A. M. Carter, Old Settlers Convention:

Temporary sickness prevented me joining you according to promise. Though absent from the convention in flesh count me present in spirit.

A. HYATT SMITH.

Hon. Beriah Brown, of Washington Territory, former publisher in this city, and well known all over the state by the pioneers, being present, was loudly called for. As he passed up to the speaker's desk, applause came from all parts of the chamber. The old war-horse said it was well known that he was no speaker; and were he possessed of the eloquence of St. Paul he would not be able to properly express his feelings which swelled up in his heart. He would record this as one of the happiest events of his life, in being able after a quarter of a century, to meet and take by the hand so many friends and companions of early life.

General Charles H. Gill responded to a call and indulged in some happy remarks.

Hon. Nelson Wheeler, of Baraboo, was called out as the recognized funny man of the State of Wisconsin. He made a speech which, ever and anon "brought down the house."

Hon. J. W. Bewey, of Iowa county, was called on. He responded briefly and to the point.

Elder Evans, of Oregon, Dane county, answered to a call, and related interesting tales of early times in Wisconsin.

A. Morton, of Madison, obeyed a call, and replied in a most appropriate manner, and closed by reading a few lines which he had composed, entitled "The Pioneers."

The next business was the election of president and secretary of the association. Mr. Rountree returned thanks for the honor that was conferred upon him at a previous meeting, but declined serving as president another year.

General Atwood proposed the name of Hon. A. M. Carter, of Rock county. He was elected by acclamation.

Hon. H. A. Tenney, hoped the association would select a new secretary, as he had held the position a long time. He named General Simeon Mills, and the General was elected by acclamation.

On motion, the association adjourned until the first Wednesday in June next.

BANK ROBBERY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 7.—When Jesse James was killed on the 21 day of April, the honest people of Missouri hoped that operations similar to those which had made the James gang a terror to the central portion of the United States were at an end. But this wish has not been realized, for to-day, at Brookfield, as bold and outrageous a robbery was carried out as ever perpetrated by Jesse and his confederates in their palmy days, and one which would have done credit to that redoubtable desperado himself. Indeed, the manner of the affair would indicate that it not perpetrated by some of the members, or say, by Frank James himself, it must have been done by some who took lessons from the original crowd and profited by their tuition.

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon, just as the Bank of Brookfield, situated in the town of Brookfield, was closing for the day, six men rode into the town from the west, down the street, and, dismounting, entered the bank, where they covered the cashier, J. Ford, and Carrie Smith, clerk, with their revolvers and went through the safe and money drawer, securing about $50,000 in cash. They then backed out, still covering the frightened bank people with their revolvers.

Remounting, they departed in the way they came, firing their revolvers and shouting like demons. The robbers, as they departed, started toward the other bank, but were evidently afraid of finding a warm reception prepared for them and concluded to abandon this part of their original scheme and safely make away with their booty.

THE FIRE RECORD.

DETROIT, June 7.—Boydton & Akely's shingle mill, the largest in the world, burned last night at Grand Haven. The loss is $125,000; insured in twenty-four companies for $29,000. The mill will be rebuilt in sixty days. Two hundred and forty men and boys are temporarily out of employment.

OSHKOSH, June 7.—At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, fire broke out in the engine room of the saw mill of Campbell Bros. & Cameron, on the south side of the river and in ten minutes the entire mill was in ruins. There was a high wind and the fire spread with fearful rapidity. One hundred and fifty thousand feet of lumber was destroyed and 500 cords of slabs. The wind blew straight across the river, and whole flaming boards were carried over among the mills on the opposite shore setting fire in the yards, and for a time a panic prevailed. There was a terrible fight to keep the fire from taking in the mills and lumber yards on the North side. Thousands of people fought the fire with pails, and all the mills in the leeward of the line of fire ran out hose and men for protection. But only two were burned, being the residences of Mark Ellsworth and J. B. Potter. The elegant residence of O. D. Peck was on fire, and the pupils were partially burned, but the fire was put out. Loss on Campbell Bros. & Cameron's mill, $25,000.

THE STRIKERS.

MILWAUKEE, June 7.—What one believed to be the first definite steps looking toward a settlement of the strike of the iron-workers of the country took place here to-day. The Milwaukee representatives of the North Chicago Rolling Mill Company held a conference with delegates from the various departments at the mills at Bay View, and an amicable arrangement was arrived at relative to a number of matters involved in the great strike. The meeting was secret, and it is understood that the manufacturers here are willing to meet the laborers half way and allow them a partial advance where such is possible. Although all the points at issue have by no means been settled, yet there is every reason to believe that at the conference which is to be held in the morning between the parties to the previous consultation, matters will be so arranged that several of the departments will be enabled to start up again next Friday week.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 7.—The conference has just adjourned. J. D. Weeks, Secretary of the association, says a new organization of all the iron manufacturers of the West was formed its object being to govern the question of wages as well as the regulation of card rates, etc. The meeting was the largest ever held. The situation was fully reviewed and discussed, and the opinion prevailed that if the advance was conceded this time the Amalgamated Association would next year demand $6.50 or $7 per ton for puddling. They then came to the conclusion that they might as well fight it out now, and it was unanimously resolved not to start the mills in accordance with the present demand, and every one present pledged himself to adhere to the resolution.

Fair Play for the Hog.

If our forefathers had studied the hog with any closeness, we would have spared the sayings of: "Selfish as a hog," "hungry as a pig" and "he eats like a regular hog," etc. To begin with, the hog is not a selfish creature. Two hogs will agree about as well as two men, and a hog who was taken along on a steamboat excursion would have cause to say to his porkers: "You act like men and women." The hog is not a hungry animal. Give him three square meals a day, and he is content, while most men must chew, smoke and nibble between meals and have a lunch at bedtime. To "act like a hog" would be to mind one's business, go to bed early, and be satisfied with the situation. The hog is not a liar, hypocrite or dead-beat. He acts on the square, is always as represented, and in disposition he has few equals in the human race. He has been misunderstood and abused, and it is time that his friends rallied to give him fair play.

BRACE UP—Your system for work.

ZOFESA, the new Dyspepsia and Liver remedy, attends strictly to business by correcting the Stomach, Liver, and Kidneys. Sample bottles, 10 cents; large bottles, 75 cents. Sold by Prentiss & Evenson.

An Eccentric. Amos Dow is an eccentric character living near Seabrook, N. H. Some twenty years ago he went into a barber's shop and was shaved with a razor which the owner said cost $15. Whether he thought the story too big, or the price too much, it is certain that a razor has never touched his face since. But his most singular freak is in regard to women. He built a house and placed over the door a sign which read as follows: "Notice, Admittance to Gents, but no Ladies," and no woman has ever crossed the threshold of his door. He lives alone, does all his own work, and appears happy.

GOLDEN'S LIEBIG'S LIQUID BEEF and Tonic INVIGORATOR is admirably adapted for females in delicate health. Golden's; no other. Of Druggists.
